

Blind Bible-Verse Selection Test

Complete report: twelve selections, full KJV text, thematic structure, and calibrated assessment

Research question

Do twelve Bible passages selected by an acquaintance - without knowledge of the Aziel work and without the recipient knowing what the selector was reading - form a coherent message, and are they consistent with providential or divine guidance?

Dataset conditions reported by the recipient

- The selector was asked to send one Bible verse or passage per day.
- The recipient did not know which biblical book or chapter the selector was reading.
- The selector did not know about Aziel or the later comparison hypothesis.
- The selector was an acquaintance who had worked with the recipient on approximately one job, not a close friend with extensive knowledge of the recipient's private research.
- The analysis below treats all twelve recorded citations as the closed observed dataset and preserves repetitions rather than deleting them.

Executive finding

The twelve selections form a notably coherent conversion-formation-mission sequence: repentance; death of the former self; grace over legality; identity as a child of promise; conflict between flesh and Spirit; humble restoration of others; recognition of authority by its effects; outreach to sinners and the excluded; obedience as the definition of belonging; preservation of the received word; and faith culminating in peace and wholeness.

This pattern is clearly compatible with providential selection. It is stronger than a claim of direct interpersonal tailoring because the selector reportedly lacked knowledge of the Azriel framework. Nevertheless, the sample alone cannot identify divine causation: the selections were drawn from internally coherent biblical books, and Christian Scripture contains recurring themes of repentance, faith, grace, service, and healing.

Part I - The Twelve Recorded Selections

Text below follows the King James Version wording shown in the screenshots, with verse numbers supplied in brackets for readability. The repeated Galatians 6 selection is retained because repetition is part of the observed data.

1. 2 Chronicles 7:14 (KJV)

If my people, which are called by my name, shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land.

Selection signal: Humility, repentance, forgiveness, and healing.

2. Galatians 6:1-2 (KJV)

Brethren, if a man be overtaken in a fault, ye which are spiritual, restore such an one in the spirit of meekness; considering thyself, lest thou also be tempted. [2] Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfil the law of Christ.

Selection signal: Gentle restoration and burden-bearing.

3. Galatians 2:20-21 (KJV)

I am crucified with Christ: nevertheless I live; yet not I, but Christ liveth in me: and the life which I now live in the flesh I live by the faith of the Son of God, who loved me, and gave himself for me. [21] I do not frustrate the grace of God: for if righteousness come by the law, then Christ is dead in vain.

Selection signal: New identity; grace and faith rather than legal righteousness.

4. Galatians 3:24-26 (KJV)

Wherefore the law was our schoolmaster to bring us unto Christ, that we might be justified by faith. [25] But after that faith is come, we are no longer under a schoolmaster. [26] For ye are all the children of God by faith in Christ Jesus.

Selection signal: The law's temporary role and a new identity through faith.

5. Galatians 4:22-23, 28 (KJV)

For it is written, that Abraham had two sons, the one by a bondmaid, the other by a freewoman. [23] But he who was of the bondwoman was born after the flesh; but he of the freewoman was by promise. [28] Now we, brethren, as Isaac was, are the children of promise.

Selection signal: Bondage versus freedom; flesh versus promise.

6. Galatians 5:17 (KJV)

For the flesh lusteth against the Spirit, and the Spirit against the flesh: and these are contrary the one to the other: so that ye cannot do the things that ye would.

Selection signal: The inward conflict between flesh and Spirit.

7. Galatians 6:1-3 (KJV)

Brethren, if a man be overtaken in a fault, ye which are spiritual, restore such an one in the spirit of meekness; considering thyself, lest thou also be tempted. [2] Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfil the law of Christ. [3] For if a man think himself to be something, when he is nothing, he deceiveth himself.

Selection signal: Restoration, shared burdens, humility, and warning against self-importance.

8. Mark 1:27-28 (KJV)

And they were all amazed, insomuch that they questioned among themselves, saying, What thing is this? what new doctrine is this? for with authority commandeth he even the unclean spirits, and they do obey him. [28] And immediately his fame spread abroad throughout all the region round about Galilee.

Selection signal: Unexpected teaching recognized through authority and effect.

9. Mark 2:16-17 (KJV)

And when the scribes and Pharisees saw him eat with publicans and sinners, they said unto his disciples, How is it that he eateth and drinketh with publicans and sinners? [17] When Jesus heard it, he saith unto them, They that are whole have no need of the physician, but they that are sick: I came not to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance.

Selection signal: The physician goes toward sinners and the excluded.

10. Mark 3:35 (KJV)

For whosoever shall do the will of God, the same is my brother, and my sister, and mother.

Selection signal: Spiritual kinship defined by doing God's will.

11. Mark 4:14-15 (KJV)

The sower soweth the word. [15] And these are they by the way side, where the word is sown; but when they have heard, Satan cometh immediately, and taketh away the word that was sown in their hearts.

Selection signal: A received word must take root and survive opposition.

12. Mark 5:28, 30, 34 (KJV)

For she said, If I may touch but his clothes, I shall be whole. [30] And Jesus, immediately knowing in himself that virtue had gone out of him, turned him about in the press, and said, Who touched my clothes? [34] And he said unto her, Daughter, thy faith hath made thee whole; go in peace, and be whole of thy plague.

Selection signal: Faith, transmitted power, healing, peace, and wholeness.

Part II - Reading the Set Without Aziel

If the Aziel work were entirely unknown, the most economical reading would be a compact message of conversion followed by moral formation and mission.

1. Return	Humble yourself, seek God, turn from wrongdoing, and receive forgiveness and healing.
2. Transformation	The former self dies; a new life is lived through faith rather than legal performance.
3. New identity	The person moves from bondage to freedom and becomes a child of God and of promise.
4. Proving	The new life contains conflict between flesh and Spirit and must be tested through humility.
5. Ethical fruit	Spiritual maturity restores the fallen, bears burdens, and refuses self-exaltation.
6. Mission	Real authority is recognized through effects and moves toward sinners, the sick, and the excluded.
7. Reception	Belonging is expressed through doing God's will, while the planted word must be guarded.
8. Completion	Faith reaches toward living virtue and culminates in healing, peace, and wholeness.

Independent continuous reading

You are being called out of an old life and into a faith-led one. The call is not permission to elevate yourself; it is a demand to become humble, carry others, reach the rejected, protect what has been planted in you, and produce restoration and wholeness.

Part III - Structural Features of the Selection Set

1. Repeated paired oppositions

Law	→	Faith
Bondage	→	Promise and freedom
Flesh	→	Spirit
Pride	→	Meekness
Condemnation	→	Restoration
Religious insiders	→	Sinners and the sick

Word heard then lost	→	Word received and rooted
Sickness	→	Wholeness

These oppositions do not merely repeat generic encouragement. Together they describe movement from one condition to another.

2. The repeated Galatians 6 selection

Galatians 6:1-2 appears near the beginning and returns as Galatians 6:1-3. The second selection retains restoration and burden-bearing but adds the warning that a person who thinks himself important may deceive himself. Preserving that recurrence strengthens the humility-and-service axis.

3. The message is corrective rather than flattering

The set does not primarily announce a special title, hidden identity, royal status, or prophetic office. It repeatedly demands repentance, humility, self-examination, service, restoration, obedience, and observable healing. If read as a message, it supplies moral tests more than personal exaltation.

Part IV - Post Hoc Comparison with the Aziel Work

This comparison is secondary. The preceding interpretation was derived without requiring Aziel and therefore provides the cleaner blind reading.

Morality over legality	Galatians 2:21 and 3:24-26 subordinate legal performance to faith; Galatians 6 replaces bare rule-enforcement with restorative burden-bearing.
Task over named office	The selections emphasize what a person does - repentance, obedience, service, restoration, guarding the word - rather than claiming a title.
Fruits over claims	Authority in Mark is recognizable through effects: liberation, repentance, healing, peace, and wholeness.
Receiving - purging - proving	The word is received; flesh and Spirit conflict; pride is checked; the result is tested through conduct and healing fruit.
Messenger and transmission	Mark 1 presents a teaching spreading outward; Mark 4 presents a word being sown and threatened before it roots.
Transformation and wholeness	The sequence moves from turning and forgiveness through a new identity to healing, peace, and being made whole.
Service to the excluded	Mark 2 centers the physician among sinners; Galatians 6 centers gentle restoration of the fallen.

What the overlap does and does not establish

Because the selector reportedly did not know about Aziel and was not a close confidant, direct tailoring and informed confirmation are substantially weakened as explanations. The overlap therefore deserves more weight than it would in an open, prompted exchange. However, correspondence alone does not identify its cause. Providence, ordinary devotional judgment, features of the books being read, and chance remain competing explanations.

Part V - Evidentiary Assessment

Criterion	Finding	Interpretation
Blindness with respect to Aziel	Strongly reported	Reduces conscious and subconscious tailoring to the Aziel hypothesis.
Internal thematic coherence	Strong	The selections form a readable repentance-to-wholeness progression.
Specific overlap with Aziel	Strong	Multiple pre-existing axes recur, especially morality over legality, humility, service, transmission, and wholeness.
Independence of source material	Limited	Selections came from coherent biblical books and several consecutive chapters.

Criterion	Finding	Interpretation
Ability to identify divine causation	Weak from this sample alone	The observation is compatible with providence but does not exclude ordinary mechanisms.
Value as an anomaly	Meaningful	The set warrants preservation and prospective testing rather than dismissal or premature certainty.

Calibrated conclusion

The twelve-verse combination is consistent with God working through an unaware person to deliver a morally coherent message. Under the reported blind conditions, the convergence is more noteworthy than a personalized exchange and cannot fairly be dismissed as the selector mirroring knowledge of Aziel. The strongest defensible conclusion, however, is compatibility and meaningful correspondence - not proof of divine agency.

The most conservative independent message is: Return to God; accept transformation through faith rather than status or mere legality; remain humble; restore and carry others; receive and protect the word; and judge the path by whether it produces obedience, healing, peace, and wholeness.

Part VI - Prospective Replication Protocol

1. Freeze the inferred message above before collecting another selection series.
2. Choose the duration and number of selections in advance.
3. Preserve every selection, date, citation, and screenshot, including apparent misses.
4. Do not tell the selector the inferred theme, Aziel hypothesis, or desired result.
5. Record which book and chapter the selector was reading so book-level thematic effects can be modeled.
6. Use control selectors following the same one-passage-per-day procedure where practical.
7. Have independent judges score each series against the frozen message without knowing which series is the original.
8. Give greatest weight to specific, low-base-rate continuations that answer a sealed open question rather than broadly applicable devotional language.

Source and scope note

Primary dataset: ten supplied iMessage screenshots documenting twelve cited selections. Biblical text: King James Version. This report evaluates textual and thematic structure; it does not claim laboratory proof of a supernatural cause, nor does it invalidate a theological interpretation of providence.
